ABOUT

Born of an intuitive and emotional affinity between the three founders- Armand Louis, Aurel Aebi, Patrick Reymond, atelier oï works across architecture, interior design, product design and scenography with a collaboration across disciplines, creating holistic solutions from object to space.

Founded in 1991 in La Neuveville, Switzerland, the trio has been linked for 30 years and have a strong interest in nature and natural materials. Their expertise in transforming these enables them to realize projects that are both emotional and artisanal. They strive to go beyond the confines of a single discipline.

The three founders are architects, designers and boat constructors, all members of the Swiss Federation of Architects FAS and directed the Swiss federal prize of design as President of the Federal Commission for Design between 2008 and 2016. Educated at the architecture school funded by Alberto Sartoris in Switzerland, the founders further received honorary doctorates from the institution.

ANISORA

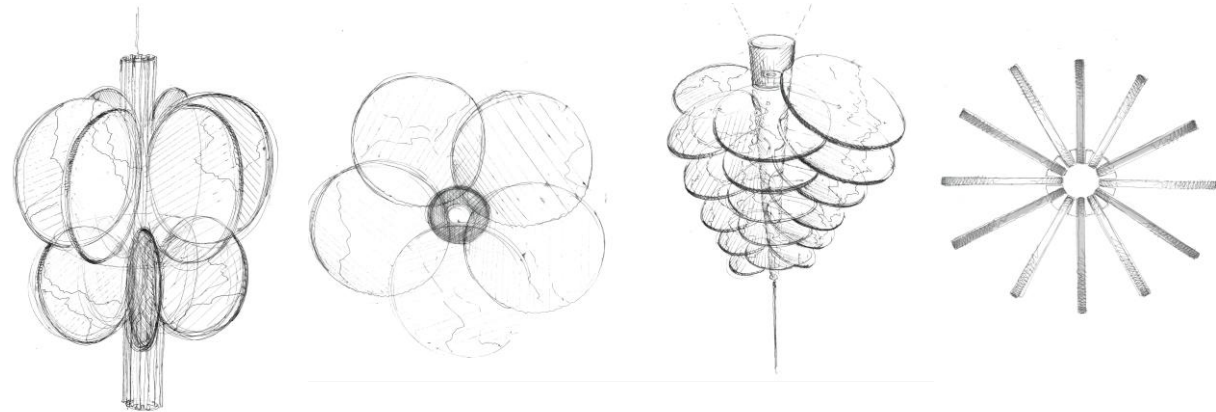

INSPIRATION

Anisora was born from a meeting between nature and light. A combination of star anise & ora meaning 'light' in Latin, which evokes star anise, recalls the strength contained within a seed. Like a seed that sprouts, Anisora's light bursts from the centre, radiates outward, and comes to life within the material.

Its alabaster discs, arranged around a central axis, allow the light to blossom gently and reveal the full opalescent depth of the stone. The golden metal details echo the chandeliers and lanterns of past eras yet are reinvented here in a contemporary version that is both pure and refined.

The collection includes pendant lights, table lamps, and floor lamps, offering different ways to bring this light into the interior space.

Thus, Anisora embodies a seed of light: an object that bridges tradition and modernity, nature and craftsmanship, to illuminate interiors with elegance.

OïNA
INSPIRATION

Born from the timeless intelligence of sacred geometry, the Oïna collection explores the circular form as a universal principle of balance and flow. Its spiral structure embodies energy in continuous movement, unfolding through a subtle repetition that gives rhythm and depth to its presence.

Inspired by the field of harmony, where light circulates rather than radiates, creating a living glow that breathes with its environment. Each rotation suggests a cycle like a perpetual return that evokes natural systems, from celestial motions to organic growth.

Both calm and vibrant, the lamp expresses a quiet dynamism: a form in transformation, suspended between stillness and motion. Layered cross-structures, unfolding across multiple levels, overlap and interact, creating a shifting perception and an illusion of movement.
